

We are an agency specializing in digital strategy and we were searching for professional developers to help us with our various projects related to web based applications. Most of our projects are based on the .Net platform and needed developers who had the experience of working on this platform and were capable of handling complex situations. As being one of the leading digital agencies, our portfolio of work involves a perfect blend of creativity and technology and therefore our requirements was to hire a team that could deal with dynamic and stylish designs as well as complex databases.

At Aegis software, we found a perfect match because the team was enthused with the right amount of creative spirit as well as sound technical background especially on .net platform. As we have our own team of developers, we usually never outsource development, but due to a high work load, we hired a team of four developers and can gleefully admit working with them for the past four years has been a delightful experience for us. They put a lot of effort, technical knowhow and experience into each of our projects.

Procab Agency
C. Bervolan
Switzerland

